

逼出來的智慧

香港人的空間使用

尺土換遍山

香港人詬病地價昂貴，寸金尺土，每人都只有丁方之地。

但若每個人都要佔上一片土地，擁有一間大房子、一個私家花園，這個地球會變成甚麼樣子？哪兒長我們的食物，集我們的用水？每個人要用多少時間去取生活所需？走多少路與人交往？

香港是高密度的城市，細小的生活空間，培養出善用土地的智慧，換來了大片的天然林木，眾人共享的郊野公園，萬物共生的棲所，向高空發展更孕育出另類的「離地」文化、不同的生活情趣。

「離地」文化

不同的土壤長出不同的果實，拿與香港同源的台灣來比較，台灣人文藝浪漫，香港人實際精明；若然台灣有的是優雅的「在地」文化，那麼香港則有聰敏的「離地」文化。「離地」向高空發展，不單換來冠絕全球的大後花園外，讓香港人享盡咫尺之便，換來寸金難買的光陰，進而享受親近之情，嘗多元之趣，甚而悟出市井之隱，愛蒼生之懷。

3-1+ 系列

這組傢俱，借鏡於香港人的精打細算，秉承香港「快、狠、準」的精神，善用土地和時間的智慧，用細料和再造木材，造出精妙的傢俱，買回呎價過萬的室內面積，無價的時間，更嘗試填補因空間不足而被迫犧牲的詩意和情趣，希望達至減地方、減時間減材料，加意義，3-1+的品牌使命。

Save our earth through compact living

Hong Kong is famous for its super density and compact living. Hong Kong people often complain about their tight living conditions and the very high cost of space, which is reflected in the common saying, "a square foot costs an ounce of gold".

However, giving everyone lots of space may not be the best solution. Imagine if everyone in the world had a spacious house with a large garden on a big piece of land, what would happen to our earth? Where to grow our food or collect our water? How much time would we spend each day getting to work, meeting people and sourcing things we need? Compact living conditions have cultivated Hong Kong people's great wisdom in using space and has allowed for an extraordinarily high proportion of intact green area within the city. Our country parks have provided an amazing level of biodiversity. High density urban development has also created an indigenous "high-rise" culture and lifestyle.

"Highrise" Culture

It has been said that "different soil natures different fruits". A comparison between Taiwan and Hong Kong cultures may serve as a good example. Both stem from traditional Chinese background, however, while Taiwan has developed a more "earthy" culture due to its comparative abundance of land and space, Hong Kong has turned "high rise". It may well be that these physical differences have bred very different attitudes: while the Taiwanese are considered "cultural and romantic", Hongkongers are known to be "smart and practical".

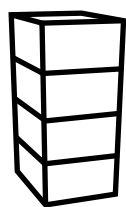

High-rise development has given Hong Kong world class greenery in the form of lush country parks, while still allows Hong Kong people to enjoy the super convenience of proximity, saving precious time, staying close to extended families, and maintaining a big city's diversity and contrast. Some even enjoy the "privacy" of being anonymous in the crowd, all the while still appreciating what the community has to offer.

3 "less" and 1 "more"

Our unique collection of furniture has all the traits of Hong Kong people's smart and thoughtfulness, encompassing our attitude of being quick and precise. It taps into our ingenuity through the usage of space, time and left over/recycled materials. It saves precious indoor space; it saves priceless time. Most important of all, it brings elements of leisure and poetic qualities often lacking in our confined community. We believe this collection fulfills our brand mission and you ideal of 3 "less" and 1 "more" -- less space, less time, less materials, but more meanings of quality life!
